

Wisconsin Works (W-2) Successes

Rosana had medically verified barriers to employment including extreme anxiety when she enrolled in the W-2 program.

She showed up to her appointments every week, always put in her best effort in. Her hard work paid off less than one month after enrolling in the program when she was hired at Menards.

She made quick strides at her job and was able to move from the cashier position to the coveted garden center and also began training for a service desk position. The cross-training has the potential to lead to management.

Rosana is loving her job and her anxiety has disappeared to the point where her therapist took her off all medication. She smiles all the time, works as many shifts as she's given and is always willing to pick up shifts from her co-workers.

---

*“Rosana is now able to pay her own rent and have
money to live on.
She couldn't be happier.”*

---

Angela wanted to work enough hours to help support her family when she enrolled in W-2.

She first found employment in the spring, but a medical issue forced her to leave the job. She was then set up with a work site at a second hand shop where she handled customer service and stocked shelves. Two weeks later she gained employment at a convenience store where she is happily working and able to provide for her family.

Wisconsin Works (W-2) Successes

Rosana had medically verified barriers to employment including extreme anxiety when she enrolled in the W-2 program.

She showed up to her appointments every week, always put in her best effort in. Her hard work paid off less than one month after enrolling in the program when she was hired at Menards.

She made quick strides at her job and was able to move from the cashier position to

the coveted garden center and also began training for a service desk position. The cross-training has the potential to lead to management.

Rosana is loving her job and her anxiety has disappeared to the point where her therapist took her off all medication. She smiles all the time, works as many shifts as she's given and is always willing to pick up shifts from her co-workers.

---

*“Rosana is now able to pay her own rent and have
money to live on.
She couldn’t be happier.”*

---

Angela wanted to work enough hours to help support her family when she enrolled in W-2.

She first found employment in the spring, but a medical issue forced her to leave the job. She was then set up with a work site at a second hand shop where she handled customer service and stocked shelves. Two weeks later she gained employment at a convenience store where she is happily working and able to provide for her family.