

FoodShare Employment and Training (FSET) Successes

David enrolled in the FSET program because he wanted to work and knew he needed help finding a job.

About a month after enrolling David found employment, but then decided it was not the right position for him and ended up leaving the position.

He said that the FSET program helped him to find his own voice, and also teach him how to go about finding, starting, and leaving employment the right away.

He is now happily working as a security officer for Ho Chunk Gaming, which is in line with what he wanted to do.

Anthony enrolled in the FSET program with the goal of finding a job working full-time in a kitchen where he would have the opportunity to grow within the company.

His employment coordinator was able to help him create a resume and offered interview tips and suggestions on follow-through for applications that Anthony completed.

WCI also assisted with transportation by paying for Anthony to receive his temporary driver's license; the first step to obtaining his permanent license.

Anthony's employment coordinator assisted him with an online application to the Mauston Kwik Trip, which required five to seven references.

Anthony was offered employment and began working in June. WCI was also able to help him by reimbursing him for his work uniform.

Anthony says his supervisors have already started hinting that he may soon get additional duties, including cooking.
